Better food
for a better world

We produce food.
We generate value to society.
We respect the environment.

We are an
agri-food group:

we generate food for people, using research and technology to make it healthier and more sustainable, and by stimulating the development of the communities in which we operate, especially in rural areas.

Our history

From flour to protein:
the evolution of an agri-food DNA

1956 / 1970

From flour to feed

The Vall Companys Group started off as the Harinera La Meta flour mill, which initially produced bread flours, and moved into the manufacture of animal feed and the first pilot tests with livestock integration..

1970 / 1980

Livestock integration

Our integrated model consolidated and expanded to poultry farming. This involved starting up complementary activities, such as logistics and regional expansion.

1990 / 2000

Quality and traceability

Food safety and veterinary controls increased. Pork production was consolidated with own insemination centres, and poultry with our first incubator.

1980 / 1990

Volume and logistics

Production process phases were scaled: animal health, breeding of sows and hens for our pork and poultry divisions, and new feed plants. Logistics played a key role.

2000 / 2010

Consolidation of the vertical model

We incorporated different slaughterhouses for pigs, poultry and cattle. Total control over all livestock production was also consolidated, from genetics through to the table.

2010 / 2022

Industrial and commercial specialization

We got closer to end-consumer, with new lines of processed and cured meats, Iberian pork and duroc. Total traceability consolidates.

Today: an Agri-food Group
